College gets into the Greek spirit

GREEK Week was more than just hitting the books and learning about Ancient Greece for Mazenod College Year 7 students.

After a week of immersing themselves in the ancient culture and visiting the museum to witness artefacts, they capped it all off with replica costumes and faux chariot races.

Researching Greek armour and weapons culminated in the students designing and creating their own, as well as chariots (elaborately decorated wheelbarrows) for Olympic Games activities last month.

The day started with an opening ceremony during which each class paraded with their class banner to their chosen anthem.

There was a Greek theatre performance followed by chariot races and sports events.

The highlight of the day for many was the Greek feast, which consisted of a range of delicacies that had been prepared at home and brought in by the students.
