

LESMURDIE

COMEDY A TRAGIC TRIBUTE

AUDIENCES are in for a hilarious time with Mazenod College's latest staff theatre production, but there will be a sombre tone behind the scenes.

The comedic murder mystery Murdered to Death will be performed as a tribute to former teacher Barry Moss, who died last year.

Moss directed staff productions for 25 years and was heavily involved in the Perth Hills community as an actor, director and mentor.

Teachers plan to continue the productions in honour of their former colleague.

The rib-tickling play will have audiences trying to figure out "whodunit" in the Agatha Christie-inspired production, directed by Nick Allen. Bumbling Inspector Pratt (John Keogh) and his quick-witted but accident-prone offsider Constable Thompkins (Liam Mallon) make their way down the list of shady suspects – played by Mazenod teachers – to discover who did the dirty deed.
